

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

Hemolysin isolated from hemolysin-producing fungi can be used to detect if a human or other animal has been exposed to a hemolysin-producing fungus. The method and proteins of the present invention can be used to screen humans and other animals for exposure to such fungi, as well as to produce vaccines for protecting humans and other animals that may be exposed to such fungi.

F:\,e\epa\vesper1\pto\specification

TOP SECRET